Dear Zontians and Friends of Zonta,

On behalf of the Zonta International Foundation Board, I am pleased to share with you the Zonta International Foundation's Annual Report for Fiscal Year 2011 (1 June 2010 to 31 May 2011).

This biennium, we challenged ourselves to raise US $3,758,000 to support Zonta's international service programs and educational awards. With the generous contributions of Zonta clubs, Zontians and friends around the world, the Foundation received nearly US$2 million in donations during the first year of the biennium. The unwavering generosity demonstrated by you, our supporters, during these difficult economic times is truly remarkable, and we are immensely grateful to you all for your support.

Donations to the International Service Fund are making cities safer for women in San Salvador, El Salvador and Guatemala City, Guatemala; providing surgeries to repair obstetric fistula in Liberia and to help these women rebuild and return to fulfilling lives in their communities; and working to prevent transmission of HIV from mother to child in Rwanda. UNICEF, Zonta's partner in Rwanda, reported earlier this year that with Zonta's support, the elimination of mother-to-child transmission of HIV and the creation of the first HIV-free generation in Rwanda by 2015 is a very real possibility.

Zonta International's commitment to preventing and ending violence against women remained strong this year thanks to your generous contributions to the Zonta International Strategies to End Violence against Women Fund. With your support, Zonta is bringing attention to the all too common, but often unrecognized and unreported issue of burns violence in Cambodia, Nepal and Uganda. In Haiti, Zonta is helping to rebuild a shelter in Port-au-Prince for women and girls who are victims of sexual and domestic violence, ensuring that they have access to safe shelter and needed services.

Recognizing that education and empowerment is integral to women's success, Zonta International continues to provide educational awards to help women achieve their educational and career goals. The Zonta International Amelia Earhart Fellowship Program is providing much-needed financial support to women pursuing advanced studies and research in the traditionally male-dominated fields of aerospace-related sciences and engineering. Contributions to the Jane M. Klausman Women in Business Scholarship Fund help women achieve success in business by supporting their undergraduate and Master's degree studies in business management, and the Young Women in Public Affairs Award recognizes young women who have demonstrated leadership skills and a commitment to public service and encourages them to continue their participation in civic causes.

You can read more about each of these programs and the women who benefit from your support of the Zonta International Foundation later in this report. As you read, please know that the success of Zonta International's programs and projects are only possible because of your commitment to Zonta's mission and your generous support of the Zonta International Foundation.

Again, thank you for helping Zonta International and the Zonta International Foundation make a difference in the lives of women around the world!

Sincerely,

Dianne K. Curtis

Zonta International Foundation (ZIF), the official charitable foundation of Zonta International, advances and sustains Zonta's global service and advocacy programs. With the generous support of Zonta clubs, Zontians and friends worldwide, over time, the Foundation has provided a total of US$21,483,550 to programs and projects that have benefited women and girls around the globe. Through the Foundation, Zonta International is able to help women and girls overcome gender barriers to educational and professional advancement; provides opportunities for women to earn higher wages and achieve economic independence; ensures that women and children have access to quality, affordable health care; and strives to end violence against women while helping survivors rebuild their lives. During the 2010–2012 Biennium, Zonta International has set a goal of raising US$3,758,000 to support the continued success of our educational award programs and international service projects.

International Service Fund

Zonta International seeks to improve the legal, political, economic, educational and/or health status of women in developing countries or countries in transition through international service projects conducted in collaboration with United Nations agencies or other recognized non-governmental organizations. Since 1923, Zonta International has provided training, education, health, sanitation, agricultural and micro-credit assistance through its International Service Program, contributing more than US$11 million to projects benefiting more than two million women in 37 countries around the globe.

During the 2010-2012 Biennium, Zonta International is supporting three projects through contributions to the International Service Fund.

■ Prevention of Mother-to-Child Transmission of HIV and Gender-Based Violence in Rwanda

Zonta is working with UNICEF in Rwanda to prevent mother-to-child transmission of HIV through the provision of family package services, including counseling and psychosocial assistance, anti-retroviral treatment to prevent the transmission of HIV, follow-up services for infants exposed to HIV, and income-generating activities, at 20 UNICEF-supported health centers throughout Rwanda. With the support of Zonta International, UNICEF is making significant progress in Rwanda, and the Rwandan Government's goal of eliminating mother-to-child transmission of HIV in Rwanda by 2015 is a realistic possibility.

In addition, Zonta's support of the project is helping to expand holistic care and services at support centers for survivors of domestic and gender-based violence, ensuring access to proper medical, legal, psychosocial and police support. The Isange One Stop Center, established in 2009 by UNICEF, UNIFEM (now UN Women), UNFPA and other partners, is one such center. The Isange One Stop Center—which means “feel welcome” in Kinyarwanda—provides free services for survivors of child domestic abuse and gender-based violence (GBV), including a free telephone hotline for help, protection from further violence, investigation of crimes, medical and psychosocial care and support, and collection of forensic evidence. “Thanks to the Isange One Stop Center, women like me have doctors and psychologists who can sit for a long time to talk to women about their abuse—physical and mental,” recounts Mary. “I thank God for this every day. The Center has provided me with hope—and a place to start recovering—without it I would have nothing...not even a life worth living.”

■ Safe Cities for Women in Guatemala City, Guatemala and San Salvador, El Salvador

Zonta International is working with UN Women in Guatemala and El Salvador where rates of urban violence and violent homicides are above the already high regional average and women are at an even greater risk of violence due to their traditionally subordinate position in society. With Zonta's support and the collaboration of local women, women's organizations and local government, UN Women is identifying risks and participating in planning to create practical solutions, public policies and municipal plans to produce safe neighborhoods and decrease the risk of violence against women while incorporating the issue of violence against women in the context of HIV/AIDS.

Alba is a community major and coordinator of the Municipal Council of Development in Puerto Barrios, Guatemala. She is currently working with five municipalities of Izabal, taking care of the women's municipal offices and the groups of women in the Department, while linking all her actions to the Safe Cities Program. “Safe Cities represents to me the absolute right all women have to go on the streets, to be in our homes free of violence of all kinds; that our authorities do their job, especially the ones directly connected to the population in general, but particularly to families. Somehow, the problem of domestic violence in our Department decreases when women are empowered and know their rights,” said Alba.

■ Towards Elimination of Obstetric Fistula and the Reduction of Maternal and Newborn Mortality and Morbidity in Liberia

Obstetric fistula is a hole in the birth canal caused by prolonged, obstructed labor without medical intervention, which usually results in a stillborn baby and leaves the mother incontinent, and in some cases, paralyzed. With properly trained surgeons, well-equipped facilities and the necessary aftercare, the treatment of uncomplicated obstetric fistula has a 90% success rate. The cost of treatment is US$300, a small sum to many but well beyond the means of the average woman in Liberia.

Zonta International is supporting UNFPA's work with the Liberia Fistula Project to provide fistula treatment through proper, well-equipped health care facilities and the training and capacity building of health care providers to treat fistula, as well as raising awareness and conducting outreach among communities and health care providers about the definition, causes and treatment of obstetric fistula in order to prevent further cases. Zonta's support is also funding a Fistula Rehabilitation Center, which provides income-generating skills training and continuing medical care to prepare the women to return home to their communities after they have received the necessary treatment.

T-Girl is one of the many young women who have benefited from the Liberia Fistula Project, funded by UNFPA through Zonta's support. In 2009, at the age of 17, she went into labor. The nearest health center was three hours walking distance from her home so she was taken to a traditional birth attendant in a nearby town. After two days in labor, she was finally transferred to a health center where she delivered a stillborn baby. T-Girl's prolonged labor and delivery resulted in an obstetric fistula and paralysis of both her legs. She was referred to the Liberia Fistula Project in December 2009, where her fistula was repaired after two surgeries. After treatment, T-Girl continued her rehabilitation at the Fistula Rehabilitation Center, where she studied pastry making. She returned home in February 2011 and now averages a daily profit of US$10, selling her baked bread and doughnuts locally. “I want to complete my high school education and continue to college,” says T-Girl. ■

Zonta International Strategies to End Violence against Women (ZISVAW) Fund

Zonta International strives to promote and protect the human rights of all women and girls and reduce the incidences of violence against them through the Zonta International Strategies to End Violence against Women (ZISVAW) Program. Through this program, Zonta supports prevention and advocacy strategies locally and internationally; awards grants to United Nations agencies or recognized NGOs for projects that seek to change personal and/or political knowledge, attitudes and behavior contributing to gender-based violence; and increases awareness and actions related to preventing violence against women by encouraging Zonta club involvement in local and national advocacy initiatives and service projects. Since 1999, Zonta International has provided more than US$2 million to support 40 projects in more than 23 countries.

During the 2010–2012 Biennium, Zonta International is supporting two projects through contributions to the ZISVAW Fund.

■ Towards a Comprehensive Strategy to End Burns Violence against Women in Cambodia, Nepal and Uganda

Acid violence and other forms of burns violence are prevalent forms of violence against women and girls, especially in countries where regulatory monitoring and controls are weak, and where the judiciary, lawyers and police have limited knowledge on the appropriate laws to prosecute perpetrators. Zonta International is supporting the UN Trust Fund's collaboration with Acid Survivors Trust International (ASTI) to pilot new and innovative, community-based approaches to prevent acid and other forms of burns violence against women and girls in Cambodia, Nepal and Uganda. The project is focused on improving response from the justice, police and health sectors, mobilizing communities to monitor and advocate for the implementation of legislation reform, and encouraging individual responsibility to end this gender-based violence.

Ponleu was 18 years old when she married an older man who was emotionally and physically abusive. She endured his abuse and gave birth to a daughter before she gathered the strength to ask for a divorce. In response, her husband doused Ponleu with gasoline and lit her on fire in front of their three-year-old daughter. After spending all her savings on medical treatment, Ponleu was still ashamed of how she looked and stayed indoors at home as much as she could. Ponleu found support through the Cambodian Acid Survivors Charity (CASC), the only organization in Cambodia offering holistic support to survivors of acid burns violence. CASC runs a commune where survivors can access a range of services and support from medical treatment and legal assistance to skills training and peer support. Ponleu received continuing medical care and assistance with employment and has become a seamstress, working for CASC as an assistant pressure garment tailor. She also sews hospital scrubs, and CASC regularly gets orders from hospitals around the area. Ponleu's husband left after the incident and has not been found; however, Ponleu is committed to supporting her family, excelling at her job and being a role model for other survivors.

■ Security and Empowerment for Women and their Families: Ensuring a Gender-Responsive Humanitarian and Early Recovery Response in Haiti

Historically, during times of emergencies, Haitian women and girls have experienced increased acts of violence, particularly sexual violence; therefore, UN Women, with Zonta's support, is focusing on implementing sustainable programs to provide services to women and girls who are survivors of violence while contributing to national efforts to strengthen prevention of and response to sexual and gender-based violence in the aftermath of the January 2010 earthquake.

Zonta International's contribution to UN Women is helping Kay Fanm, one of the oldest women's organizations combating gender-based violence and providing services to survivors of violence in Haiti, reestablish shelter services for adolescent and women survivors of violence after its building was destroyed in the earthquake. Although Kay Fanm continued to provide medical care, psychological assistance, mediation services and legal assistance for women and girls in the aftermath of the earthquake, the organization was not able to provide temporary shelter for victims of sexual or domestic violence.

Kay Fanm found and purchased a piece of land in Port-au-Prince where women and girls would have easy access to services. A low-tech, environmentally-friendly and cost-effective construction plan that also meets engineering requirements for earthquake resistance has been finalized. Organized around a modular system, the project will be completed in phases as additional resources become available. The first phase is the construction of the safe house, which is expected to be completed and operational by the end of 2011, with the support of Zonta International.

Throughout the search for and purchase of the land to house the shelter, Kay Fanm continued to provide services to women and girls who were survivors of violence, including psychosocial support and group work, medical care, mediation services, legal assistance, and accompaniment through the justice system. This critical support has led to an increase in the number of women and girls who break the silence around sexual gender-based violence (SGBV) and decide to seek justice. ■

Educational Award Programs

Amelia Earhart Fellowship Endowment Fund

Established in 1938 in honor of famed pilot and Zontian, Amelia Earhart, Zonta's Amelia Earhart Fellowship is awarded annually to 35 women pursuing Ph.D./doctoral degrees in aerospace-related sciences and engineering. Since the program's inception, Zonta International has awarded 1,333 Amelia Earhart Fellowships, totaling US$7.5 million to women from 65 countries. Amelia Earhart Fellows have gone on to become aerospace engineers, astronauts, astronomers, business owners, geologists, professors and even Secretary of the US Air Force.

Birgit Ritter, a 2011 Amelia Earhart Fellow is studying Physics at the University of Kiel, Germany. She is constructing a miniaturized battery-driven active radiation detector that can be used by astronauts to measure radiation in space. Ionizing radiation at the altitude of the International Space Station poses a health threat to astronauts. Currently, radiation dose is measured using passive detectors which must be brought back to earth to be read. A real-time measurement that records radiation dose and provides an alarm function is necessary. The dosimeter Birgit is developing includes the design of the detector configuration and electronics, development of software, and the construction of a prototype.

Birgit Ritter, 2011 Amelia Earhart Fellow, prepares the experimental detector setup for the irradiation run during her first successfully-conducted test measurement in February 2011 at the Heavy Ion Medical Accelerator (HIMAC) in Japan

Jane M. Klausman Women in Business Scholarship Fund

Zonta International established the Jane M. Klausman Women in Business Scholarship Fund in 1998, thanks to a generous bequest by Jane M. Klausman, a member of the Zonta Club of Syracuse, New York. Since then, Zonta has awarded 237 Jane M. Klausman Women in Business Scholarships to women, pursuing undergraduate or Master's degrees in business management, from 37 countries. Today, Zonta annually awards 12 International Scholarships of US$5,000 each, in addition to district scholarships of US$1,000 each.

Linda Magara, a 2010 Scholarship recipient, is a Ugandan woman studying at the Master's College in Santa Clarita, California. Growing up in a small village in Western Uganda, Linda learned the importance of education from her mother who singlehandedly raised her children while her husband, a soldier, was away for prolonged periods of time. Thanks to her mother's influence and emphasis on education, Linda excelled in school and was able to attend some of the best schools on academic merits. She began to see the life-changing power education, particularly financial education, could have for her community, and it became her long-term goal. Linda desires to one day start a financial literacy program that also offers life skills, talent development, English, computer literacy and free small business advice. After graduation, she plans to return home to start serving her community and build the trust and relationships needed to start her program.

Young Women in Public Affairs Award Fund

Zonta International recognizes young women for their demonstrated leadership skills and commitment to public service and civic causes and encourages them to continue their participation in public and political life through the Young Women in Public Affairs Award Fund. Since the program's inception in 1990, Zonta has given 601 awards to 534 young women, ages 16 to 19, from 50 countries. District recipients receive US$1,000 each, and Zonta selects five international recipients from the district recipients to receive additional awards of US$3,000 each.

Arizza Ann Sahi Nocum is a 2011 Young Women in Public Affairs Awardee and an administrator of the A-Book-Saya Group, an organization in the Philippines founded by her Christian father and Muslim mother to improve and promote education for children living in communities entrenched in poverty and crime. "Imagine if instead of guns, each child there would grow up with books and new opportunities," said Arizza, who donated part of her US$4,000 award to expand the Kris Library in a slum area of Quezon City. Looking to the future, Arizza wants to be a leader in the establishment and advancement of science and technology in the Philippines, which will lead to the creation of jobs, improved standards of living and progress for her country. She would also like to empower Muslims and minorities, especially women and children, to improve their living conditions and status in society. ■

> FIRST-TIME DONOR: Souella Cumming

Souella Cumming, President of the Zonta Club of Wellington, New Zealand, made her first donation to the Zonta International Foundation last year. She recently shared why she chose to begin personally supporting the Foundation, in addition to the support already provided by her local club.

When Souella first joined Zonta in 2006, she learned that her club raised money for local, national and international projects, giving 1/3 of club fundraising monies to local projects, 1/3 to national projects and 1/3 to international projects. She was happy to contribute to her club's efforts by attending fundraisers and giving of both her time and money; however, it wasn't until she attended the 2010 Zonta International Convention in San Antonio, Texas that she became conscious of the true importance of Zonta's international service projects.

At Convention, Souella heard from international speakers about Zonta's international projects with the United Nations and realized the impact of the projects and the importance of donating to the Foundation. The information and videos available at Convention and the somewhat competitive element to giving at Convention sealed her decision to donate to the Foundation for the first time, and she was pleased to receive her donor pin when she returned home to New Zealand after Convention.

> LOYAL DONOR: Kay Geisler

Kay Geisler has been an active member of the Zonta Club of Lebanon in Indiana, USA (District 6) since 1987. She is also a loyal supporter of the Zonta International Foundation, making individual donations to the Foundation for the last 13 consecutive years. Kay recently shared why supporting the Foundation is important to her as an individual Zontian, in addition to the support provided by her local club.

For Kay, being a member of a prestigious women's organization like Zonta International, where professional women from all over the world come together to support a common mission, is truly an honor. The owner of a local trucking company, Kay is proud to be a part of a larger movement whose impact extends beyond her local community. One of Kay's earliest recollections of Zonta's international service efforts was listening to a missionary from Sri Lanka speak about water wells. The wells were provided through Zonta International Foundation's support of UNICEF's efforts to bring clean drinking water to people in Sri Lanka (a project funded through the Zonta International Foundation from 1982 to 1986). To know that her local club from a small farming community in Indiana

"If you believe in the mission and it's in your heart, you will find a way to give." —Kay Geisler could make a difference in the lives of people in a country like India was truly remarkable. The missionary's story and the impact of that project have stuck with her through all the years since.

While many Zonta clubs contribute 1/3 of their fundraising dollars to the Zonta International Foundation, Kay stressed that it is important for Zontians to make individual contributions in order to maximize Zonta's contributions to the international service projects and educational awards. Although clubs work tirelessly on local fundraising events and projects, those efforts do not always make a lot of money, which in turn limits what the club can then give to the Foundation. Individual contributions provide additional support not met by club donations.

Kay firmly believes that the work Zonta International does to improve women's lives in turn improves the lives and futures of their children and their families.
